& CHIARA FEDRIGOTTI

MUSE - MUSEUM OF SCIENCE, TRENTO

19 March 2026
5:00 - 6:30 PM (CET)

Join us to deepen your understanding of how Citizen Science can transform learning and engage students with real-world science.

This webinar will explore how schools can use Citizen Science to provide interactive, hands-on learning experiences. Students follow the scientific method under researchers' guidance, applying protocols, using technology, and working with lab tools to collect, process, and contribute scientific data. These activities connect directly to pressing global and environmental challenges.

The session will also showcase national and international Citizen Science projects particularly suited to schools, offering practical examples of how students can participate in meaningful research while developing skills, curiosity, and a sense of responsibility toward science and society, in ways that resonate with educational approaches recognized across Europe.
